No more Scab in Sheep.

The undersigned an old sheep farmer in the neigh of this province after many years of study in the pernicious infirmity of the scab, has at last discovered an infallible remedy against a sickness that in the body where it generally breaks out like a storm resisting all the remedies that to this time have been discovered.

This specific so simple in its application as great in its result, is preferable to all invented until now, it is cheaper than tobacco, and free from poisonous substances contained in all other remedies before invented.

With only one scrobe of my specific there is sufficient for the Scab of 800 or 1000 sheep, and at the low price of $ 160, I will facilitate all sheep farmers to cure their sheep in a perfect state of healthiness, to make known this remedy and induce farmers to prove it. I have determined to sell small packages of one b at $8 which I hold at every one's disposition who wishes to prove its infallibility.

Instructions for its application will be given in the deposit of specific against the scab:

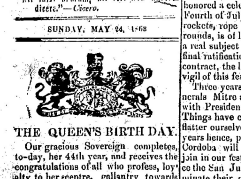
SUNDAY, MAY 24, 1868



THE QUEEN'S BIRTH DAY.

Our gracious Sovereign completes, to-day, her 44th year, and receives the congratulations of all who possess loyalty to her respire, gallantry towards the sex of which she is so illustrious a member, or admiration for the Empire which she directs. No European monarch is so deservedly popular, and her reign of a quarter of a century, though it reflects many lurid times, forms a page of British History equally honorable to her name and glorious to the first power of Christendom.

Nor is it merely lip-homage which we render to our liege Lady, the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland. In the hour of her affliction, she experienced those sterling proofs of sympathy which spring from the most generous sentiments of the human heart. During her last visit to Ireland, no less than in the retirement of Osborne palace, she found sympathy for the loss of a dear parent and beloved consort, manifested in proofs of loyal affection, such as court-smiles cannot purchase, nor imperial sway dictate.

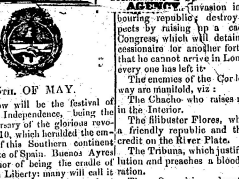
Despite the errors of Ministers, the misconduct of subordinate magistrates, and the vices of partial legislation, all portions of the British Empire will join with pleasure to salute the birth-day of Victoria, desiring her a long and prosperous reign. The anniversary in fortnight with more loyal demonstrations, owing close upon the marriage of the Prince of Wales, in whom are centred all a mother's hopes and a nation's confidence.

The 24th of May is brilliantly celebrated at Windsor, and in all the great capitals of the Continent; but it is particularly a holiday in every English homestead, where the name of her gracious Majesty is cherished as a domestic association. And amid the wild grandeur of the Scottish Highlands, the fascinating retreat of royalty, a fervent prayer is offered for her welfare. Nor less dear in the Emerald Isle is the rightful Queen of that people who wisely sought legislative independence, while they pour forth the emigrant's farewell, or wail of national distress. In the distant colonies of a Western or a Southern hemisphere, the young world of Peace and Plenty is coupled with the Anthem of loyalty. The subjects of our Indian empire look to Victoria as a redeemer from the bondage of past centuries; and even the citizens of the Great Republic, though agitated by the passions of his hour, feel respect for the ruler of the mother-country.

The Argentine republic pays a tribute to the day, and replies to the salve fired by our men of war, to bid "God save the Queen"; while our foreign and native residents compliment it as the happy occasion. This being the eve of the festival of Argentine independence, the two celebrations stand in auspicious proximity, as are our several interests in this country, and we can reciprocate congratulations in a true spirit of fraternity. Loyalty aside as petty questions of ephemeral consideration, we shake hands warmly; and wishing a continuance of such friendly feeling, unite in praying for her Britannic majesty—

"Many happy returns of the day."

NEWS PAPERS. Within a few days about half a dozen news papers will appear, and accordingly the work man will by scarcer than they are at present.



25th. OF MAY.

To-morrow will be the festival of Argentine Independence, being the 52rd anniversary of the glorious revolution of 1810, which heralded the emancipation of this Southern continent from the yoke of Spain. Buenos Ayres has the honor of being the cradle of S. American Liberty; many will call it a fatal gift, pregnant with the seeds of rebellion and anarchy, but this is rather true of the unbridled ambition which animated the unworthy imitators of George Washington, in these countries.

While every part of the Globe has been making rapid strides, while a colossal nation has sprung from the petty colonies of Britain in the North, while the wilds of Australia have been eagerly sought and settled by an active race, while Brazil has created great commercial and political relations with the Old World; nine S. American Republics have either remained in a state of semi-barbarism, or retarded the progressive impulse of the age.

Nevertheless a better era has of late set in, and we cherish the hope that the 25th of May may soon become as honored a celebration as the American Fourth of July. A childish display, of rockets, rope dancing, and empty rotundas, is of little merit; but we have a real subject of conversation in the final settlement of the Cordova railway contract, the last act of Congress on the vigil of this festivity.

Three years have elapsed since General Mitre and Urquiza, fraternized with President Derqui, in this capital. Things have changed since then, let us flatter ourselves, for the better. Three years hence, permanent friends from Cordoba will take a trip by steam, to join in our festivities. Three years hence, the Rosario will be the little peninsulate their establishment at 31 calle San Martin. Three years hence, we shall send telegraph bulletins far and near, to announce the events of the great day.

To those who are given to literary feates, we recommend the reading of the Argentine Eagle's fine apostrophe to "Canto de Mayo"; and to all our Argentine friends we wish Peace and Prosperity.

OPPOSITION

There is an old saying—" That opposition is the life of trade.' We hope it will prove so with railways. We regret to be obliged to enter editorially into a serious opposition of a certain clique to the Cordova Railway project. Seldom have we witnessed a more degraded effort on the part of any paper in a minority.

It is well known that the contractor or concessionaire is most anxious to get rid of the whole affair. The small packet, and that more than a little depends upon his speedy arrival in England.

Tear up the rails of the road is a crime at common law; to throw impediments on the track which might endanger the train is a felony: but to oppose such a line, on account of an insignificant article in the contract of a projected railway, thereby prolonging the discussion, and thus further object to the delaying of Mr. Wheelright, and the frustration of his plans for the next 12 months, is so unprecedented, that we feel bound to call attention to the parties who lent themselves to such a transaction.

Don Pastor Obligado—a man who, only the other day, on his being appointed a director of the Western Railway, confessed his utter ignorance of railway matters and the temerity to make propositions which are absurd and ridiculous if ever Don Pastor spoke a word of truth, he then spoke the truth. He knew nothing of railways. He may know something of electioneering and chess-playing on a small scale; but his railway experience is as deficient as his acquaintance with the rights and duties of foreigners resident in the province, which he lately hoped to represent.

Sr Murnol—whose poetic genius sheds a ray over even the desert forest of the Chaco, and whose unique sarcasm is for the value of its timber.

The gentleman who thought proper to accuse the President, not on a charge of selling Flores to invade the Banda Oriental, not for having an employée who preaches revolution and regeneration, but for having a personal interest to inaugurate the works of the said railway: this person also leads his name to the Opposition.

Sr. D. Obligado, joined with others, opposes an enterprise which is fraught with the most incalculable blessings to the republic. The scheme is viewed with jealousy by a clique. It cannot be stopped, as the works are inaugurated; it cannot be prevented by open opposition, as the public are in its favour. Then, stab it in the back by creating a revolution in the —invasion in a neighbouring republic; destroy its prospects by raising a smoking Congress, which will detain the concessionaire for another fortnight, so that he cannot arrive in London until every one has left it.

The enemies of the Cordova Railway are manifold, viz:

Artigas, the man who raises revolution in the Interior.

The filibuster Flores, who invades a friendly republic and throws discredit on La Plata Finance.

The Tribuna, which justifies a revolution and preaches a bloody regeneration.

The Opposition deputies who, knowing nothing about the subject, attack it for the sole purpose of wasting valuable time.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

Before sending to press the remarks we made, in our issue of yesterday, on the Message of His Excellency the Governor to the Chambers, on the Southern Railway contract, we had not had an opportunity of perusing the communication made to Government by Messrs Parish and Fair.

After a careful reading of that document, we have come to the conviction that, so far from it being, as we said of yesterday, a clear statement of facts, the Governor's message is a studious ignoring of the material facts of the whole question The letter of the Company's attorneys is a sufficient reply to the insidious and narrow arguments of the message to which it is attached.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The Dinner at the Legation, last night was rather a quiet affair. We have not the honor of the Minister but suppose her Majesty's health was drunk. Mr. Doria, as a private gentleman, has a perfect right to adapt his dinner parties to the size of his dining parlour, or the dimensions of his cellar; but as the representative of a great people, who have thought proper to accredit him to a nation whom they he is permitted to hoist from his house top, he displays the most censurable parsimony in bringing a public celebration to an insignificant dinner party. We are informed that £500 is allowed for this dinner. If this is so, neither Mr. Doria's patriotism nor taste is introduced upon and the reason for making the company so select may become rather obvious.

The steamer from Montevideo, which arrived yesterday morning, brought scarcely any news of Flores. In Montevideo everything is quiet; the people are tired of revolution.

Flores is roving about in a state of dubious convalescence.

Urquiza is again before the public. Mr Gelly Obes has left Sr Cabrita's motion, and entered the lists as the defender of the accused A few paragraphs of a rather questionable private letter, from a private individual, written for no other object than that of presenting respectful compliments to General Mitre, are published for the purpose of refuting the calumny. Any one who reads Dr Carriego's incubrations in the 'Litoral' of Paraná, will have a tolerable idea of the aversion of a gentleman who, it is said, is partner of the General, and clerk or assistant of his merriest creditor. Mr Carriego is a gentleman who must be regarded as gratuitous. We hope, however, if he persists in defending the Governor of Entre Rios, he will be more successful than in a recent allegation, where some parties regret his services have been employed.

The Urquiza-Mitre question never ceases in the Plaza yesterday were rather good; multitudes were assembled gazing with admiration at the show. Probably the most ludicrous part of the affair was our friend Syntax, who, seated in front of the Policia, was sketching the Cabildo. A sub-scribbler tells us that our friend Cazon engaged in an interesting conversation with an apple-woman whom he was vainly urging to move on. "Move on you vagabond, move on," cried Syntax, self that sets said example. Why don't you move on yourself—move on with your dog fuss, move on with your abuses, move on with your pavements. Move on, indeed! The most stationary character in the whole city is yourself. You are not Chief for four or five years, and yet you are the same old 8s. 8d.' The crowd was gathering and the indignant vendor of the emblems of liberty was about to have his say. If one moves on too fast, he is fined and if too slow, insulted. Our friend skedaddled.

Notwithstanding all the opposition of money, law, and physic; the Cordova railway bill has at last passed. Mr Wheelwright may now prepare for his return, we hope that he will be as successful in London as he has been here.

We are credibly informed that a certain native capitalist has turned his attention to the unpaid Treasury bills with the object of buying them up a sweeping discount; we hope that English holders will have more sense than to be frightened into a surreptitious sale. The Minister of Finance's project has an object in it and, but we mention our friends against being dupes of glutenol needlessly.

Whether on purpose, or through mistake, the country may be not aware that finance Ministers has advertised, that on the 31st September next, some conversions or interest will be paid. Dr Sarsfield seems fond of practical jokes, in his next notice we trust he will appoint Saint Tib's eve, or the 30th February next.

In the plaza, yesterday, the 4 blocks were converted into Lottery shops, and the business seemed to go briskly afternoon. A few needy individuals wanted to get some 'on tick', but Don Patty Cabral and the Pbro. Mogul coming up soon, sent the needy speculators about their business. The animal on the platform, a poor miserable beast, striking proof of the impoverished state of the camps, remained motionless gazing at the Frieze works on the Cathedral.

The clown, however, bore a singular contrast to the quadruped, being given to obesity. The little boy on the tight rope performed most ridiculously

The Lobos balloon was crowded with juvenile Argentines, who seemed, by the joyous expression of their features, to forget that cances were 1d. 1d. 1d. The sentries seemed very attentive watching the acrobatic feats. Everything passe l off well.

TREMENDOUS DISCOVERY

AN IRON CHEST FOUND.

Yesterday at mid-day, whilst the fun was going on in the plaza, the workmen employed in the Northern railway train-road discovered an iron chest, which was immediately taken to the Policia followed by a crowd of anxious spectators.

Mr George Wilks accompanied the supposed treasure-trove, and after policy introducing himself to the chief, laid claim to the chest, asserting that it was private property, and that it contained papers belonging to him and 800 paper dollars.

The news of the supposed treasure trove flying, and only the Bolsa hour for closing was at hand, it is thought ounces would have at last gone down to 24d.

Mr Wilks feels deeply the great responsibility of his critical position, and gave Mr Wilks his c ught without much delay.

It is said that another chest has been found since, but that the work-men, not believing in Mr Cizon's jurisdiction over treasure trove, or Mr Wilks' claim of last property, took the chest and its contents off to parts unknown.

In the Policia the greatest excitement prevailed and for a time the mob it was thought would force open the chest if the chief delayed any longer about it.

MISCELLANEA.

The widow of Mr. Thomas Dudley of Dublin, who lately died possessed of enormous wealth, followed her husband after a few week's illness, yesterday Her history was curious. She had no children, so she stipulated to marry those of his wife was then living, when they should be both free from legal impediments by the death of their respective partners and in default thereof Mrs Read-ley was to forfeit some thousands of her husband's money, for which she gave a bond. The gentleman, after Mr Bradley's death, commenced legal proceedings to enforce this bond, the wealthy widow having consented to marry him and forfeit the sum to the son of a peer—the Hon. Mr B.—— Both the rival suitors are deprived of the magnificent prize by the death of the widow, whose relations will now be likely to share the vast savings of Mr Bradley.

The handsome bronze statue erected by the citizens of Londonderry to commemorate the public services of the late Sir Robert A. Ferguson, M. P., was inaugurated on Monday last. All sorts of reports are in circulation, but the real facts seem to be these: —

The Marquis of Hartington, who is a son of the Duke of Devonshire, and one of the invited guests at the party mentioned in our first report of the affair, On his arrival with his friend Colonel Leslie he was received by the host, and was then introduced to many of the guests, none of whom noticed any badge of any sort on the breast of the coat he wore. During the evening, and while the ladies were still in dooming, a lady then and still unknown to the ears up and fastened a badge on his coat, asking him to keep it there. He, looking upon it as an innocent jest, took her arm and walked into the front of the drawing-room. There he was met by his friend Colonel Leslie, who upon seeing the decoration upon his breast, asked him to take it off, as it was not 'comme il faut" to wear it unless every one understood how it came there. He then, in answer to the question, and notwithstanding the entreaties of the fair joker to keep it there. She then left him, and, while walking with another lady, a gentleman with red hood on the badge before on his coat and supposed it still to be there, pushed up against Marquis, exchanging a few words, and there the matter ended for the night. The next morning the matter was satisfactorily explained be-tween the two parties interested.

It will appear from these facts that the inferences drawn from this occurrence in the columns of the public press are incorrect. It is shown that the marquis did not wear the objectionable badge on his arrival, and that it had been removed at the suggestion of a friend before the party whose patriotism exhibited itself on that occasion, and had been induced to correct a supposed insult to the host.

A French journal gives the report before a justice de paix of a claim made on an actor of one of the small theatres of the suburbs of Paris, for a certain number of kisses, and a certain amount of tender squeezing on the stage. We give the report in full, as the curious incident of real life the cost of a theatrical kiss, according to the dramatic laws of the French stage. One M. Magnien sues appears before a justice of the peace, and, addressing the judge, says —"Monsieur le Juge, I'm a dramatic actor. I play the parts of lovers in a theatre of the faubiurne. My parts oblige me to be extravagantly passionate excited, and enthusiastic. I'm obliged occasionally to love women of all ages, of all conditions of life, actively and perseveringly, sometimes for a couple of years together. Love-making must become laborious, Monsieur le Juge, and even repulsive and annoying, if one is obliged to make love. Well, sir, and will you believe it, all my fire, devotion, my artistic amorous skill, so successfully addressed to the pit, has got another grief." Judge "How so?" Narcisse: "Parbleu! I gain only 100f. a month for running away with young ladies, making love to confirmed coquettes, and often seducing unsuspecting innocents, and they want to make me pay 100f. for articles delivered." Judge: "Articles delivered and pray what were they?" Narcisse: "Kisses [much laughter]. 50f. for one num to be sure, but a little trifled That is what M. Valsin demands of me for, in fact, kissing his wife on the stage whilst playing my role. Judge: "How is this?" Valsin: "It is a very simple affair. There are certain regulations which belong to all theatres on the subject in question. Act. I says, 'When an actor playing his role is called upon to kiss a lady, he shall only appear to do so.' Act. 2. 'An actor who shall really kiss an actress without her previous formal consent, shall be fined 5f. Art 3. 'Pressing sincerely to the heart pays a fine of 2f. Art. 4. 'Any actor who shall vigorously embrace my wife 10 times, and unmistakably kissed her 25 times, for which I demand 150f." Narcisse: "The price is beyond all reason." (laughter) Valsin: "I demand that sum, according to the usages of the dramatic law which I quote. Sometimes one compromises the matter; there are bonds on both sides." Valsin: "Good" Narcisse: "I stole 25 kissed" Valsin: "Yes." Narcisse: "Well I offer you 25 cents—total 30sou!" How the Court lost all his gravity, and the judge dismissed the case, referring the matter to a higher court of justice.

LOCAL EVENTS.

TO URQUIZA'S FRIEND.

Dos Herra Brod ich esse
Des Herra Lied ich singe.

INSURANCES, The companies established in this city have been doing a very fair business lately; particular-ly the North British Mercantile Co.

We had an opportunity yesterday of seeing a large number of houses insured in the suburb past the Plaza Lores.

IMMIGRANTS 5 arrived the day before yesterday from Hamburg per american barque "Mark L. Potters."

RAILWAYS. By this mail the Concessionaires of the Cordova, Chascomus and Ensena railways are going to England.

We hope they will be severally successful in their objects of their voyage, for years long we shall see a dozen ships with cargoes of rails and machinery on board,

COLON THEATRE.—The managers of this Theatre should pay a little attention to the wishes and convenience of the public. The ticket office is small and inconvenient; the Guards stare instead of keeping back crowds, and instead of keeping the ladies who are obliged to wait a half an hour before leaving the theatre in a number of people outer the passages and halls of the house, where they interrupt the passage of those who have seats and of ladies in the exercise of boxes.

These complaints have been so often published in the papers that it seems that the managers of the theatre will not take any notice of the matter.

REFORM.—The Provincial assembly on the motion of D. Mariano Vare is have decided on reforming certain articles of the Provincial Constitution which are in opposition to that of the Nation.

TIGRE.—Our colleague the "Nacion Argentina" calls the attention of that Municipality to the damage which will be caused by the late establishment of a steam boat.

By and by the river will be covered and into something like the Riachuelo of Barracas—a pestilent nuisance and the cause of much sickness. We therefore call the attnias under the belief that what a healthy locality will find they have thrown away their money.

THE HERSEY. Leaves 28th and Arrives 31st instant and accordingly there is every probability of a supplementary mail on the 29th or 30th from this city.

MEN OF WAR.—Those in the port of Montevideo at present are as follows:

		Bases
Steamer	Curlew	6 guns.
"	Triton	3	"
"	Forte	51	"
Sun-boat	Shell Drake	3	"
"	Dotterel	2	"
Corvete	Stromboli	1	"

There are besides 4 Italians with 3 guns each; 3 Austrians with 16 do; 2 French with 2 do; and 1 Italian with 10 do. There are also 90 merchant vessels in port, and 4 men of war in the river Uruguay.

HOTEL DE LA PAZ.—We hear this establishment has a very good electric telegraph although on a limited scale.

THE MEMOIR. —Of the Secretary of the Interior Dr. Rawson has been presented to Congress. It contains a proposed contract which is nearly terminated for the colonization of Patagoner, the ancient jesuit establishment, by a Welsh immigration Society.

PICTURES.—At the store of Messrs. Cortí Fernandez there are now several paintings come out by the young Argentine student in Florence D. Mare nio Agrelo. They are very well executed and allow considerable improvement.

THE TYPOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY has just received from New York a very fine printing office worth about 3000 patacones, which will be be worked by themselves.

PRIZES.—The distribution of prizes to the schools of the Society of Beneficencia will take place on Tuesday 26th inst., when as usual the house will be full: it is a very interesting scene nony and invitations rather scarce.

A company of artillery will attend.

Dr. UGARTE has presented a motion to the local legislature for the erection of a town in every partido which does not possess one and the sum of $200,000 to be devoted for each.

CLUB DEL PROGRESO AND PLATA.—The former refuses members on the grounds of want of space and naturally the latter its list. We hear the Plata has had an accession of twenty to twenty-five new members during the last few days.
